— Trip to Japan

■ By Teri Mitchell September 2007

▲ Tons of Sanrio character goods (including Hello Kitty) at a department store. Towels, lunch boxes, stationeries, bags, accessories, etc.....

▲ Harry Potter movie poster in Japanese

▲ Hello Kitty items for prizes at a convenience store.

Hello Kitty shaped mini fridges, aroma foot lamps, bags, cooking pots, opera glasses, night lights, luncheon mats, etc...

▶ Licca, her family, friends and various designs of dresses. Licca is like Barbie dolls for Japanese girls

◀ Ladies' volleyball Japan team became the queen of Asia while I was in Japan. I was excited to watch the game on TV. Last time Japan won the gold medal was 24 years ago...

▼ The white & pink sign on the door says 'Ladies-Only Car'. During a certain time of the day (rush hours), some cars are restricted just for women on trains and subways.

◀ If you know Tokyo's hectic train/subway commuting, you can't believe this empty quiet scene.

▲ There are different designs for public phones in Japan. This is the most common style these days.

Explore Japan Troupe

As announced in the November 2007 issue, Teri Mitchell is planning a private tour to Japan for the end of May or the beginning of June 2008. You will be exploring Tokyo, Yokohama and Kamakura on Teri's localized guided tour. The $2000 package for 1-week stay will cover round-trip air tickets, Narita Airport - Yokohama transportation and accommodations in Yokohama. If you've never been to Japan, this will be the best opportunity to start traveling there on a guided tour, which will ensure you really understand and enjoy the beauty and mystery that is Japan.
